Respected Sir/Madam,

I would like to express my interest in Lean six sigma project management internship listed on career page. I consider it as an opportunity to learn more and strengthen my Skill. It is a pleasure for me to gain practical experience as a student in the major supplier of wafer fabrication equipment and service to the worldwide semi-conductor Industry.

Currently, I am studying Masters in Mechanical Engineering(General) at the University of Duisburg-Essen, Germany. In my master study I learn to work in complex theoretical areas and solve complex mechanical problems. Topics like Production Management, Factory Planning, Intermod Transport Chain, Kinematics and robotics, Strategic logistic planning, Control engineering, etc. have influenced my studies.

During my undergraduate studies, I did an internship at Emerson Process Management India Pvt Ltd (Virgo Valves), Pune. That was the first time i entered into core Industry where I worked under Project Champion and was a part of 6 week Kaizen Event for the Process Improvement. I learn about all lean management tools and Statstical analysis software (Minitab). After graduation, I joined Semco Electric Pvt.Ltd., Pune, as a Project Manager (Kaizen Event Facilitator. My team improved a bottle-neck production area and managed transform it in 2 years to the most efficient area of the site by using Lean Six sigma methodology, DMAIC. Productivity improvement of +30% in 2017 & +20% in 2018.

I believe my existing knowledge is a knife and with experience as an intern, I could sharpen it. So, I would like to learn from your innovative team and gain more experience. Furthermore, my bachelor's degree was in English and my master's degree is in German-English combined. So, I am confident to be fluent in English(Business fluent) and good in German(B1 level) as well.

I am available from 1 June,2022 for more than 6 months, I would be very pleased to receive your invitation for an interview.

Yours sincerely,

Kenilkumar Balar
